

Rush

Now that we have learned about all the houses on Credit Campus, we are ready for Rush. Hold onto your seats folks because it isn't your normal university that offers formal rush parties to meet the members. It is kind of like pledging a frat by reputation alone. You have some knowledge from friends and family who have experience with certain fraternities, which of course would be the more trusted way to proceed; and then of course you have their propaganda on their house, grades, athletic awards, and parties. Can you really go off of that? Most of what you see from these credit fraternities is marketing ploys to gain your attention and trust. These brothers are notorious for not being the most upstanding and honest of fellows. You might as well drive your used Ford Escort into the house, because you will at least have a look at what truly goes on inside

Even though you may not know much about the houses in which you are pledging, be assured they know lots about you. In fact, they will send you invitations and bids to pledge without ever extending an offer for a formal or informal party. Hey, if I'm going to go into debt for someone, please have the courtesy of throwing me a party and getting me so wasted I no longer feel pain when I receive the bill.
